

Take Your Video Anywhere

Global Video Distribution Made Easy

Capture and Keep Viewers

Content distribution is becoming increasingly more difficult as programmers struggle to meet the demands of viewers worldwide. With new forms of competition, and existing markets suffering from oversaturation, content providers are looking for new ways to retain their customer base, while trying to expand their current distribution in new geographic locations.

The Intelsat global media network enables content providers to distribute their videos globally and capture new viewers easily. With multiple forms of connectivity, ground infrastructure, and world-class satellites for media, content providers can efficiently scale their channel distribution, while maintaining legacy markets.

Access Anytime, Anywhere in the World

With access to the largest global media network and premier cable and broadcast systems across the globe, you are automatically connected to over 2 billion viewers worldwide.

A combination of just 4 of our 50 satellites, with your choice of patented blended connectivity, or the IntelsatOne terrestrial network, provides you with instant global distribution.
