High-speed Connectivity Is Transforming Private Jet Travel

How FlexExec Delivers reliability at 40,000 ft

Travelers flying privately expect a premium level of service. And high-speed connectivity is no exception. No matter how far they are from their business and life on the ground, high-quality, highly resilient broadband is a must—from taxiing to touchdown.

Stay connected. Stay productive.

There's no need for travelers to put business or life on hold just because they're flying.

Large file transfer

Video streaming and conferencing

Cloud-based applications

A breakthrough solution

FlexExec from Intelsat is a global in-flight connectivity service that truly lives up to private jet travelers' expectations.

Multi-layered coverage

Core, high-throughput layers of capacity ensure redundancy and resiliency— reinforced by additional wide-beam coverage. Never again will you need to alter a route to stay connected.

Designed specifically for business aviation

Unlike other networks where capacity is shared across other verticals such as commercial aero and consumer broadband, FlexExec delivers committed network resources to business aviation, so you won't see a drop in performance.

When and where you need it most

With 80% of flight hours in less than 20% of the world's geographies, a redundant solution is key. Whether transferring large files, video conferencing or browsing the web, FlexExec has you covered.

Connect with confidence

Our in-house, robust management of the space segment, hub and ground network means no matter how your connectivity requirements change in the future, FlexExec will deliver a seamless, consistent connectivity experience.

Industry-first service plan flexibility

At Intelsat, we understand one size doesn't fit all. Together with Satcom Direct (SD), we are advancing inflight internet for business aviation through hassle-free, end-to-end managed solutions. Offered exclusively through SD, FlexExec has you covered no matter how your connectivity needs evolve. Flight departments now have the flexibility to choose a plan that is right for their unique needs.
